1. The Public Safety Bureau in Mukden has about 1,300 men in addition to traffic, criminal, and plain-clothes policemen. The headquarters of the bureau is at T'aiyuan (太 原) Street, Hop'ing (和 平) district. YANG Ch'ou (楊 等) is head of the bureau.

2. In Mukden there is one division of 10,000 troops from the Northeast Military Area Command. An artillery regiment equipped with ten 75mm guns is stationed in the suburb of Peiling. Defense installations in Mukden consist of four anti-aircraft guns, block houses, and air-raid shelters which were built in late 1950. There are no radar installations.

3. The Mukden Arsenal is manufacturing shells, ammunition, and Model 38 rifles, and repairing various types of weapons. The Northeast Rubber Factory in Mukden is producing automobile tires [redacted] The only industry evacuated from Mukden was the large uniform factory, which was moved to Harbin. 25X1

4. All Chinese and Soviet technicians transferred to Manchuria during 1950 have returned to their homes [redacted] People who left Mukden [redacted] had returned [redacted] 25X1

5. The Sino-Soviet Freindship Society, Churin and Company, and the Soviet Club are still active in Mukden. There is a TASS office in Mukden. There are about 300 Soviets in Mukden and about 100 in Changchun, most of whom are employed on the Chinese Changchun Railway and by business firms.

* [redacted] Comment. This seems questionable, in view of the efforts made to bring technical personnel to Manchuria. [redacted] 25X1
